Introduction

This manual describes legal requests and compliance information to the related regulations. The contents of this manual are subject to change without a prior notice.

FCC Notice

This product complies with part 15 of the FCC Rules. Operation is subject to the following two conditions:

(1) This product may not cause harmful interference, and (2) This product must accept any interference received, including interference that may cause undesired operation. Changes or modifications not expressly approved by the manufacturer responsible for compliance could void the user's authority to operate this product.

This product has been tested and found to comply with the limits for a Class B digital device, pursuant to Part 15 of the FCC Rules. These limits are designed to provide reasonable protection against harmful interference in a residential installation. This product generates, uses, and can radiate radio frequency energy and, if not installed and used in accordance with the instructions, may cause harmful interference to radio communications. However, there is no guarantee that interference will not occur in a particular installation. If this product does cause harmful interference to radio or television reception, which can be determined by turning the product off and on, the user is encouraged to try to correct the interference by one or more of the following measures:

- Reorient or relocate the receiving antenna.
- Increase the separation between the product and receiver.
- Connect the product to an outlet on a circuit different from that to which the receiver is connected.
- Consult the dealer or an experienced radio/TV technician for help.

FCC RF exposure Information

The exposure standard for mobile phone employs a unit of measurement known as the Specific Absorption Rate, or SAR. The SAR limit set by the FCC is 1.6 W/kg.

This product has a low RF power, therefore is exempted from the SAR test set by the FCC.

SAR information on this product is on file with the FCC and can be found under the Display Grant section of <http://www.fcc.gov/oet/ea/>

after searching on FCC ID : 2AFRZWUZ-01A-NB01

Additional information on Specific Absorption Rates (SAR) can be found on the Federal Communications Commission web site at <https://www.fcc.gov/encyclopedia/consumer-publications-library>.

Using Bluetooth®

- This product has the security function that complies with the standard specification of Bluetooth. However, the security level may be insufficient depending on the actual settings. Pay close attention when communicating by using the Bluetooth function.
- We do not incur any responsibility when data and/or information are leaked while the use of the Bluetooth function.
- In some countries, use of Bluetooth is restricted. Please check the laws and regulations of the country of intended use prior to using Bluetooth.

Using Wireless LAN

- The wireless LAN uses radio wave to communicate the information; therefore, it is one advantage that LAN connection is available freely within the area where the radio wave can be reached. At the same time, there are possibilities that any third party with ill intention can intercept the communication contents and/or gain access to the information if the security is not set. It is recommended that the customer sets the security and use the product under the customer's own judgment and responsibility.
- Available channels on this device are different by country.
- In some countries, use of wireless LAN is restricted. Check in advance the laws and regulations of the country and region in which the WLAN is intended to be used.

Disposal Information

Disposal of the device and accessories

Disposal may be regulated in your community due to environmental considerations. Please dispose them in accordance with your company rules in line with the local laws.

Regarding recycling of lithium-ion batteries

Lithium-ion batteries can be recycled. Please recycle them in accordance with your company rules in line with the local laws.
